For twenty-five years this company was likewise the leading lard producer of the world, and abandoned lard merely because a new world was to be conquered. With keen business perception they saw in option seed oil the basis for a still larger business in a more heulthful, more economical and in every way more desirable food product than lard. When this new produce was more desirable food product than lard. When this new produce was their plans carefully arranged they turned their attention from the lard business, and with a courage born of the confidence that they had produced what the world had so long demanded, viz., a substitute for lard, they launched "Cottolene." The quick acceptance by the public of this really meritorious article attracted the attention of the ever-ready imitator and the market was soon flooded with imitations, sulling under colors of all; desorptions. But they enotage to the fact that their success to the merit of the articles they produce; to the fact that their products are stable necessities of life, in the products are ataple necessities of life, in the lard through they continue through all scasons, in hard times and in good.

The Supreme Court rendered to day the decision which had been an impated as to the increme tax declaring unconstitutional the tax on rines and on Stati and municipal scenarios, and affirming the constitutionality of the rost of the law by a tie vote, Justice Harbin Brown, Shiras and White being for the line and their flustice Fuller and Justices Field Cray and Liewer being against the law.

The receives will fost held of the estimated income tax revinut, and will be seriously embariassed in collecting the other half which may be cut off sating the other half which may be cut off sating the other half which may be cut off sating the other half which may be cut of by a nother decision of the court of by a registing act of Congress.

But there will be no extra session of Congress on account of the loss of revenue even if it should be much greater than the treasury officials estimate. The President is determined not to have an extra session unless he is forced to it by a dangerous reduction of the gold reserve and the treasury will get along as bost it can with what revenue it does receive.

when it has a full bench, as is generally expected. Congress must act upon it for it could not possibly leave the law in the inequilable condition orcated by the decision of the court, which practically reverses the intention of those who framed it. But without an amendment to the constitution or an apportionment of direct taxes among the States, which would be almost equally difficult to carry through, and may therefore be regarded as equally impracticable, it does not appear how Congress would be able to mend the law, and therefore it is expected to end it.

Editorially the Herald expresses the Editorially the Herald expresses the following opinion, with which we fully coincide:

It is impossible to read the text of the decision without coming to the conclusion that if the court had felt absolutely free to give this expression to its views on the income tax a majority of the instices would have pronounced against the constitutionality of this impost. For example, if Cougress, before undertaking to levy the tax, bad consulted the supreme Court in regard to its legality, we are notifient that a copy would have been given which would have prevented any legislation in the matter. But, after the passage of the act, the court was naturally rejuctant to set itself in opposition to Congress, and was disposed to reduce its objections to the lowest possible limit consistent with its legal conseience. The New York Herald commenting

The fate of the game at Harvard was decided Wednesday when the overseers upheld the students as against the faculty and will allow the game to be played if modified. This will settle the business for a year at least, since the overseers are the last to act on it, the corporation having ratified the action of the athletic committee.

Tuesday afternoon Capt. Brewer had a regular game of short duration in which some 25 men participated. The full list of players is as follows. Moulton, '98, Wheeler, '98, Cabot, '98, of last fall's 'varrity squad; know, Redpath, Hennen, Hoague and Wadsworth, of last fall's freshman squad; Ladd and Weld, of the sophomore cleven, Curtis, McKittrick, Dibblee and Duff, of the innier squad, and Ketchum, '90, who played for a long time on the 'varsity second last fall, Burnstein, '18, Townsend, '96, and Domid, a promising subfreshman.

It was voted to raise $2,300 for all par ish expenses during the coming year The treasurer's report showed the colections to have been nearly $2,000 dur ing the past year It is hoped to make some needed repairs on the church the coming year. An unusual feature was the presenta tion to the church and society by the Misses Low of a very tipe portrait of their father, the late Descon Elyah Low By special request Deacon J A Wallis presented his own portrait to the church and society to complete the number of of the first pastor and descons, now hanging in the church vestry The presentation was made by Mr. G W. E The nucleus of two memorial fund has been established, one known as the Hannah Jennings fund, given by her son, Mr Stephen Jennings, of Boston and the other known as the Elijah Low fund, given by the Misses Low

These funds are to be udded to from time to time until they amount to a sulficient sum for memorial windows or some such fitting memorial. The church also has two other funds under similar cir coinstances, the Lucy Lumbert fund and the Kennedy fund.

The pastor, Rev. G. B. Heley, was pres ent, and made some timely remarks re garding the portraits presented and also ude reference to the fact that the meeting was the 14th anniversary of the first ermon preached by him in the church. The church has no debt and the out ook for the future is very promising.
